

Reopening Phase Orders Updated to Include Last County Moving to Green on July 3

July 02, 2020

Press Release, Public Health

Governor Tom Wolf and Secretary of Health Dr. Rachel Levine today signed amended green phase orders for the last Pennsylvania county to move to green. Lebanon County is moving to green at 12:01 a.m. tomorrow, July 3.

With these orders effective at 12:01 a.m., tomorrow every county in the commonwealth will be in the green phase. The administration reminds Pennsylvanians that masks are required when leaving home.

The Wolf Administration supports local officials who choose to maintain additional restrictions, such as the restrictions in place in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, and has honored requests for more restrictions throughout the phased reopening process.

Gov. Wolf's Process to Reopen Pennsylvania includes details of each phase of reopening.

Green Phase

After a county transitions to the yellow phase, we closely monitor for increased risk, such as significant outbreaks. If overall risk remains mitigated for 14 days, we transition the county to the green phase.

The green phase eases most restrictions by lifting the stay-at-home and business closure orders to allow the economy to strategically reopen while continuing to prioritize public health.

While this phase facilitates a return to a "new normal," it is equally important to continue to monitor public health indicators and adjust orders and restrictions as necessary to ensure the spread of disease remains at a minimum. It is also imperative that people wear masks in public spaces.
